ABSTRACT

Our mini-project: "A static webpage on awareness" is created using various programming languages as XHTML,CSS,PHP .

Our project aims on spreading awareness about campaigns that are unaware by most of the people in the world i.e. the zero-hunger campaign, hosted by UNO, stray-dogs protection, hosted by VOSD(voice of stray dogs),and global warming

The home page consists the main reason for awareness. The header of this webpage contains animation and when we click them it leads to various webpages

We also created a registration form to encourage people to register themselves into various campaigns listed above .

On the journey of creating this webpage we learnt many things as in how to create a webpage and how to use css(styling) and make our webpage attractive

<center><h1>AWARENESS ON STRAY DOGS</h1></center>

<center></center>

<h2>Why should I help stray dogs?</h2>

The answer is quite simple. Very often, you find yourself stepping out of your home and being surrounded by stray dogs. Some of them look quite healthy while the others look hurt, famished, or weak. Some of them even display signs of diseases. Should you just pass them averting your eyes and get on with your business? What happens if you do that? The stray dog population increases and in the next few days, you will find only more of them on your streets. This is not helpful to you and your community and more importantly, is unhelpful to these dogs.

Avid dog lovers know that even stray dogs deserve the same amount of love, care, and attention as their domestic counterparts. So, when there is an opportunity to care for a stray or an abandoned pet, you can implement these ten useful tips.

<h2>Top tips on how to help stray dogs in India:</h2>

<h2>1. Find like-minded neighbours in your community</h2>

The first step to help stray dogs is building a safe haven by creating a community of dog lovers. Remember, you are never alone in the fight for a good cause. Searching for fellow dog lovers in your community is actually quite easy. Just observe the behavioural patterns of stray dogs towards people in your neighbourhood, and you'll likely find quite a few like-minded people who want to help street dogs.

<h2>4. Vaccinate and sterilize/neuter</h2>

<center></center>

If your local animal expert or vet identifies some stray dogs that are of appropriate age to be vaccinated, don't hesitate to get this done. Neutering adolescent dogs is also recommended, and in fact a mandate passed by the Indian government, as it greatly helps in population control and improves their health.

<h2>5. Raise awareness and learn the laws</h2>

Just like humans, dogs have rights too, and that extends to the stray dog population. For years, dog lovers have been fighting for a proper legal system that must be set in place against the unethical treatment of stray dogs. India has one of the world's best laws in place to protect the rights of stray dogs. You can read this legal framework for stray dogs.

<h2>6. Prevent and report cruelty</h2>

If you happen to come across animal abuse, don't just be a mute spectator. If you see someone beating or troubling a dog, take it personally and object. Try to educate them instead. Tell them that it is punishable by law to harm or relocate stray dogs forcefully..

<h2>7. Rescue a lost or abandoned dog</h2>

As mentioned earlier, a major part of the stray dog population comprises lost and abandoned pets. It's not hard to identify them. They will probably have a collar on and be responsive to commands. Sometimes, such dogs can be hostile or defensive due to separation anxiety, prior abuse, neglect and sickness. Here's how you can help a dog that is lost or abandoned:

- <ul>Try to secure the dog and ensure that it receives immediate food, water and medical treatment.</ul>

- <ul>Use Facebook groups, WhatsApp, or other social media platforms to circulate images of the dog.</ul>

- <ul>Try for adoption of the dog if no owner is found.</ul>

- <ul>If you can't find its owner and there are no leads for adoption, contact a dog sanctuary and surrender the dog.</ul><center>

<h2>10. Volunteer your unique skills (rescue, ,manage social media, raise funds)</h2>

While VOSD doesn't allow casual visits to its premises, we do encourage dog lovers to actively participate in our efforts to help stray dogs by volunteering. You can become a member of the VOSD team in one of three ways:

- <ul>Assist at the sanctuary: Help our staff in the daily requirements of caring for stray dogs. We have opened an internship program for anyone who is interested in learning about working with dogs and having a career in this domain.</ul>

<ul>Fundraising for VOSD: VOSD is one of a kind. If you are good at creating online and real-world events for fundraising, we would love to meet you. We are open to hiring dog lovers who share the same philosophy. Check our current openings here. </ul>

People need to have a basic understanding of this when faced with stray dogs. These dogs have nowhere safe to go and will roam the streets for food. They may wander into the middle of traffic and may hurt themselves.

Both the stray dog and people are affected in this case. Stray dogs will not have a place to mark their territories and there is the possibility that urine or

3. Adopt and support stray dogs

A healthy dog is a happy dog. Before considering a stray dog for adoption, get the medical check-up and vaccinations completed. A quick visit to your nearest vet is essential. If signs of unease in the stray dog persist even after treatment, opt for a second medical opinion. Bear in mind that you may also come across stray dogs that are in critical conditions, they may look malnourished, show signs of abuse, or are just too old and weak to be adopted. Don't worry, for such stray dogs, you can get in touch with a permanent home where they can live and be loved just as much as a healthy dog.
